10:42:18 From Jessica Cheetham : I have a few questions too!

10:44:09 From Liz Porter : It's great our city has been supported with CRF, but I'm concerned about what will happen to organisations and venues who were not successful, Especially it's sad that some of our accessible spaces are now at risk, for example The Brunswick. So what can we do as a city to ensure that our accessible spaces are not lost can we find ways to support?

10:45:46 From Helen Jewell : @Liz Porter yes feeling this acutely. Is there a list of orgs in the city who were not successful?

10:47:38 From Naomi Alexander : Sour Lemons: <https://sourlemons.co.uk/enabling-environments/>

10:47:42 From Liz Porter : My mic isn't working sorry

10:49:26 From Anne-Marie Williams : And the Albert

10:49:53 From Liz Porter : My concern is around safeguarding accessible spaces. But it's deeper than that venues such as the Brunswick support many emergent artists and as it's accessible that allows broader engagement so how can we support orgs and venues to survive. I don't want to detract from the need all have but we can't lose our accessible spaces as we don't have enough as it is so... how...

10:50:36 From Marina Norris To Anne-Marie Williams(privately) : We'll go to you next

10:56:23 From Kyla B-L, Brighton Dome : Thanks Anne-Marie - I'll suggest that to Ironclad as they lead on the Cultural Surgery content

10:57:57 From Nicky Crabb : I'm sorry I can't find links but if venues or other organisation are wanting to increase youth voice - two organisations - Future Creators and Artwork are both running Kickstarter programmes with 30 young people who are on job seekers allowance who will be trained and will be looking for 3 day a week placements. Artwork are developing a team of youth consultants who you can bring in to work on a specific project in your organisation
